MAKING IT WARM FOR RICHMOND

Special to the Scranton Tribune, Tunkhannock, April 14.-C. M. Barlow was the first veness examined in the Wall trial yesterday. Barlow ter tified to seeing hair that looked like e piece of cow's tail lying near the pool of blood in front of the Stevens House the morning after the death of Waterman, and that next morning it was lying upon the pool of blood. The inference was that its presence there was merely accidental. This testimony to neutralize the impres sion made by S. J. Keating's statement, which was to the effect that the hair had been surposely put into the blood to bear out the story of the horse

Mrs. Bidleman, related the meeting between herself and Richmond at Dr. Denison's, in which he offered for $200 to tear up the written statement of Fred's attemed cortession, drop the proceedings and clear out and leave the country. The witness asked him if he thought she was fool enough to think that that was all that was essary to stop the proceedings, and told him that he could not get any-Noxen, Dec. I, when Nipa related the alleged conversation she overheard be-tween Pratt and Westcott, during Mrs. Bartleman, of Jersey which Pratt offered Westcott money to swear differently in court than he inher that that was all she knew about the matter. She also expressed a will-Mrs. Keating related what Fred had illness of his father. said to her at different times about his troubles and claimed that her story then did not at all agree with her (Mrs. Keating's) testimony on the stand, although she averred to witness that It was all she knew. Mrs. Bidleman is a sister of Fred Wall.

Corn Carpenter, a domestic in Dr. Bidleman's family, corroborated Mrs. Bidleman's testimons

Dr. Denison testified that Richmond told him on the night of Dec. 31, 1894. that he would go to California and forget to come back if a purse of $200 was

E. V. Lott saw Fred Wall and Bert Pratt at the Warren Street hotel between 10 and 11 o'clock on the night of Jan. 8. He also saw the body of Waterman before it was removed from where it was found. Examined ground and found a loose stone, which fitted into a niche in wall. The clothes on the body were all in perfect order, except his pants were slightly drawn up over the boots.

Thomas Monsoy testified that Richmond was apparently drunk on the day he arrested Wall.

Mrs. George Hinkley: "My husland once before and had a young lady | county. with him. He told me that she one Misses Mary Raught and Mebel of the best detectives in New York city. Christ were delegates to the missionnock." Witness related the arrest of Westcott and said that Richmond told him he had better turn state's evidence. Several other witnesses called to corroborate former testimony.

W. E. Carpenter testified as to the location of the street lamps in the vicin-Saturday Afternoon.

J. Wood Platt recalled and stated that Richmond was drunk when he arrested Wall. His reason for thinking to was because his face was flushed. A.M. Eastman, justice of the peace, before whom Richmond made the information on which Wall was committed,

Bert Pratt, a prisoner at the jail on charge of being an accomplice in the murder of Waterman, called: "Am a resident of Nicholson township. Was at January court last year, had a suit Brady for the past few weeks. against Henry Waterman." Witness relates events leading up to the time Normal school, is spending her Easter the alleged murder occurred, much in vacation at her home on Chestnut detail as Fred Wall had done, getting himself safely to bed at the Stevens house in due time. He did not fix a specific time at which the latter event occurred however. He also related the details of his arrest. On cross-examination he denied the alleged offer of money to Wescott to change his testimony in the case in which he, the witness, was interested. He fixed the time that he and Wall got back to the Stevens house, after their tour about Novelists of the Day Who Are Making town in search of oysters and drinks as between 10 and 11 o'clock.

The balance of the afternoon was sent in examining a cloud of witnesses, chiefly in rebuttal of former testimony and bearing upon the veracity of the witnesses in chief upon both sides. No new facts of any importance were brought to light, and judge, jury, counsel and spectators drew a sigh of relief when it was announced shortly after 5 o'clock that the testimony was all in. The court was then adjourned till Mon-V. H. L. day afternoon.

CROSS EYES MAY BE CURED.

A Visual Defect Removed by the Early
Use of Glasses.
Strabismus or "cross eyes," are now safely and almost painlessly corrected. The desired result may be obtained by the wearing of proper spectacles in early youth; but according to the Philadelphia Record, if the evil is not then

The removal of a "cataract" from the eye is one of the most delicate operations performed by the oculist. A cataract is formed by the lens of the eye becoming opaque, so as to appear grayish or otherwise, when it shuts out the light from the optic nerve. The oculist of to-day cuts into the ball of the eye and removes the darkened lens, and the optician suplies the defect by artificial lenses that make good the sight. The demand for glass eyes is increasing as the character and quality of the eyes improve. Unsightly eyeballs are now removed in part, leaving enough of the muscles to rotate the glass shell that is placed over them. Where the work is properly done the possessor of the glass eye can move it about with all the naturainess of a real optic, and in many cases it is very difficult to tell the manufactured article from the genuine. All the wild stories about substituting rabbits' eyes for human eyes, or the States is 20,000,000 bushels. This item statements to the effect that occilists of revenue is one which causes some

Money.

From the Brooklyn Standard-Union, Just what a successful hit in literature means to an author in dollars and cents was demonstated to me a few days since, when I saw a check sent to Hall Caine for nearly $5,000 as royalties on the American sales of "The Manxman" during the last four months In the same manner over $10,000 has been sent to Stanley Weyman by his American publishers as royalties on his books during the last nine months. What has been thus far remitted to Mr. Du Maurier is not known, but it is close to accuracy to place his revenue from "Trilby" at $25,000. It was not ar unusal thing for Robert Louis Stevenson to receive $15,000 a year from his literary work, and I remembered very well, during the popularity of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" as a book and play, that Mrs. Burnett's yearly income exceeded $25,000. Mary Wilkins has netted over $5,000 from "Pembroke," while corrected, an operation later on will be a close friend of S. R. Crockett tells me that his income last year from his writ> ings was over $20,000. Literary success is a very profitable thing, without a doubt. When once it is achieved the truth of the old maxim. that nothing succeeds like success, is very quickly demonstrated to the author. But only the few reach the coveted goal. A novel, for example, must sell 5,000 copies before it pays its publisher and begins to show a profit to its author. And when one considers that not one out of 40 novels ever reach a 5,000 sale, the chances of success will better understood.

> DRINKS OF UNITED STATES. New York First in Gin and Beer and Ken-tuckin Bourfon Whisky. From the New York Sun. The total amount of grain which in a year enters into the production of spirituous or mait liquors in the United States is 20,000,000 bushels. This item can take eyes from their sockets, wipe farmers, especially in years of poor them on a coarse towel and restore harvests, to look with more favor upon them unimpaired to the happy patient, the distillery and brewing business are all moonshine, and any one who is than they might otherwise. At the head of the grains used stands corn, to the amount of 15,000,000 bushels. The chief states supplying corn to distiller-iese are Kentucky, 5,000,000 bushels; Illinois, 4,000,000 bushels, and Ohio and Indiana, 1,000,000 each. New York supplies about 200,000 bushels. The consumption of rye for distillery purposes amounts to 4,000,000 bushels in a year. Pennsylvania and Kentucky together furnish about twothirds of the rye used for the manufacture of whiskey

The quantity of molasses used for the production of rum last year amounted to 2,500,000 gallons. The amount of rum produced was 1,800,000 gallons, a shrinkage of 700,000 gallons in the process of manufasture. Two states were the chief consumers, Massuachusetts and New York. Massochusetts takes high rank in the quality and quantity of her rum and has done so for many New York state has of late years. years been crowding Massachusetts closely in the production of rum. Barley enters into the production of bushels a year. The other grains used are unimportant, a few thousand bushels of oats being used for the cheaper grades of brandy-in Indiana chiefly. The total sales of liquor in the United States in 1894 amounted to 10,000,000 gallons of domestic product, exclusive of 1,500,000 gallons of spirits distilled from fruits. The total amount of malt liquors manufactured in the United States in 1894 amounted to 1,000,000 galchurch Saturday afternoon and was Jons. In respect to importations, just twice as much beer and ale was imported into the United States as of whiskey, rum, and brandy. The only considerable item of fereign importation is wine, the imports of which amount to 5,000,000 gallons a year. Twenty years ago more than one-quarter of the wines onsumed in the United States were of oreign importation. Now the propor-ly increased in value year by year. More than twice as much bourbon as ve whiskey is manufactured in the the matter. The announcement was made Thursday afternoon that the Reading company had cut prices on the city and line trade about 10 cents a ton. So far as could be learned the other companies have not mot the cut, but it is probable that they will do so unless the Reading restores the old rates The cut is made in face of the fact that the various producing companies have on strictly adhering to the agreement to curtail production this month. This is shown by the statement of shipments of anthracite coal for the week ended Satur-day last, when total shipments amounted to 684,619 tons, and while this is an increase to sea, 9,2 tons, and while this is an increase of 107,197 tons over the corresponding week last year, it is a decrease, compared with the preceding week, of 335,193 tons. Each of the three regions curtailed output during the week. Comparing the figures with those of the preceding week, the reduction was as follows: Wyoming region, 151,759 tons: Lehigh region, 29,104 tons; Schuyikill region, 155,317 tons. Proportionately, the reduction was largest in the Schuylkill
